

Vusa Nyathi Profile

Vusa Nyathi is a Digital Transformation and Programme Management Consultant, Strategist, Speaker , Writer and Podcaster.

His background in Business and Information Technology, combined with a decade in Programme Management and Project Management (waterfall and agile methodologies), has uniquely positioned him for managing the transitioning and transformation of today's organisations into the businesses of tomorrow; through digitalisation and digital transformation. He has managed infrastructure, advanced analytics, business intelligence and digitalisation projects across telecommunications, healthcare, financial services , energy , retail and logistics industries. As a thought leader in digitalisation and the fourth industrial revolution, Vusa contributes to the subject matter regularly through writing articles for both business and technology publications, speaking at seminars, conferences, and workshops, hosting a podcast, and researching cutting-edge trends.

Qualifications

- Executive MBA (Henley Business School)
- Postgraduate Diploma in Programme Management (Cranefield College)
- Advanced Diploma in Project Management (Cranefield College)
- Certificate in Advanced Business English
- Bachelor's degree in Business Administration (UNISA)
- Higher National Diploma in Computing (Zimbabwe)
- Project Management Professional - PMP (PMI)
- Prince2 Practitioner
- Certified Technical Trainer (CompTIA)
- Competent Communicator and Leadership Awards (Toastmasters International)